

Volunteer * Profiles

Deb Smith

Deb is a teacher who provides direct volunteer services and works closely with our clients and their children. She often assists with dinner preparation. Throughout her volunteering, she has built healthy relationships with many clients by providing emotional support, kindness, and laughter.

“ I enjoy volunteering at A Better Way because I feel like I can make a difference. I cook, listen, laugh and encourage them as a role model and friend.”

Logan Miller

Logan is a student from Ball State University who provides direct volunteer services to our clients and their children. He enjoys helping out members of the community who are in need of support and encouragement. He is always there to provide a listening ear when someone wants to share their story.

“ I chose to volunteer at A Better Way because they not only provide a safe place for victims, but also provide them with resources they need to get back on their feet.”

Direct Service Volunteer

Our direct service volunteers work alongside staff and provide services to survivors and their children in the areas of crisis intervention, child care, transportation, and emotional support. Direct service volunteers also assist in call handling, office work, and more.

Children's Program Volunteer

Our children's program volunteers provide services to children of all ages under the direction of the children's program staff. This includes child care, emotional support, homework help, and assistance with enrichment activities.

Indirect Service Volunteer

Our indirect service volunteers provide support to the agency that does not involve working with survivors, but rather the manual labor, clerical work, and other duties that improve the function and operation of the organization.
